Last Updated on October 12, 2020 The success of our day largely depends on the quality of our planning. Not missing anything in their task, some people prefer to make upcoming to-do lists in the notebook, while others have long started using digital technology solutions. Calendar apps are some of the main tools worth using to organize our lives and plan your time carefully. Many people have switched to certain tools; however, there are still some who don't use the calendar every day. They may find some applications uncomfortable to use, not functional, or expensive. In this article, we will check out the best calendar apps to help you stay organized. Before downloading All you are undoubtedly aware of it, there are all kinds of calendar apps available. Instead of you sorting through hundreds of them, we've selected for yourself 10 of the best calendar apps you can get. On top of the glowing reviews of each, we've considered the following aspects when creating this list: User Interface – How you navigate the app should be smooth and simple. The buttons on the app should be clear, clear and easy to pass through. Sync – Whether it's with other calendar apps or with other apps, syncing apps should be easy and improve your overall experience with the app. Additional features - Because there are so many options for calendars, many of these apps offer additional features. These features make the app stand out from other apps and give you a unique experience. 1. Any.do Calendar it has direct integration with Any.Do Task List, which gives you a unique tandem of two apps. Despite its extended functionality, Cal Calendar is easy to use. Event creation is very simple and fast. Further, depending on the event name, the application automatically adds contacts and geolocation data to the entry description. You can even import lists and entries from Any.do Any.do is a great option for all types of users. It's very comfortable and doesn't complicate display mode. Another good thing is that it's available for free, so you can use it without spending a dime on the software. Download Any.do here! 2. Google Calendar Google Calendar is the official calendar for Android devices that has been tested by many users around the world. If you are now trying to get away from it, consider changing your mind. Since the app is installed on most Android devices by default, many users think that there is nothing special in the program. They're wrong. Google has been updating its calendar for several years, and now comes in Material Design with advanced event features, direct integration into other Google services supports reminders and Google Now), and comes with Exchange support. The program is very easy and won't cost you a dime. This is a good thing, right? Download Google Calendar here. 3. Calendar Calendar is new apps. It serves as a web app and for iOS and Android devices. It's a smart app that learns your contacts, schedules, and tasks. It also helps you schedule and organize meetings according to the available time slots. The good thing about Calendar is that it allows you to sync with other calendars you use such as Apple Calendar and Google Calendar. So you can manage all the calendars you have in one place. Calendar also gives you meeting analytics, giving you a clear picture of how you can improve your time management. Download Calendar: Meetings & Scheduling here. 4. The Business Calendar is aimed at people who use their calendars for work purposes and business task planning. It offers different modes with extensive configuration capabilities. The app provides a default display mode by month, and events can be marked in different colors. Display mode/sorting can be tailored to your needs (by month, day, year, or event). You can also set the display mode for a few days to see how things look for the next few days. Scrolling up and down moves you by month, and if you check a few days, they will be displayed in a more detailed form. Day view mode offers hourly scheduling, and schedule mode provides a detailed schedule for a single event. Business Calendar is a great tool for planning/scheduling cases, tasks, and events. There is support for recurring events, which can be set up with just a few clicks. Once you've purchased the software, you can use it to import and export other calendars, delete, copy, or move multiple events at the same time. The Android Business Calendar app may seem a bit chaotic, but it works well and is easy to work with if you've been playing with it for a while. The full version of the app is available for $4.99, but you can also find a free version for the app's test drive. Download Business Calendar here. 5. aCalendar aCalendar opens our collection of top 10 calendar apps available on the market today. With an attractive design, easy navigation, and great functionality, this is one of the most popular calendar apps on our list. Some additional functions include color schemes for each case type (43 colors to choose from), different types of demonstrations, different widgets, moon phases, and more. Taking into account its functionality, aCalendar is a powerful calendar app that has an easy-to-navigate interface with three display options. Scrolling from side to side lets you switch between month, week, and day view modes. When scrolling down and up, you move through the calendar at intervals according to the display mode Selected. Regardless of its time planning features, aCalendar syncs photos from your contact list or social network to remind you of birthdays, anniversaries, or other special dates. The program also supports data transfer via NFC and full-screen widgets, which make it easy to work with any data. The program is available for free, but you also get more features if you buy an expanded software version for $4.99. Download aCalendar here. 6. DigiCal DigiCal Calendar is very similar to Cal Calendar in the fact that the app focuses on design more than its functionality. However, this does not mean that the application does not serve a purpose. With this calendar app, you can sync all your calendars and display them in different ways. Along with basic functionality, the program comes with support for Google Calendar, Outlook, and includes some unique and interesting features. You can match keywords with images or set up dark themes. The app can even show the weather forecast for three days. There are many other features that deserve the attention of people who really like using the calendar app. Download DigiCal Calendar here. 7. SoCalendar SoCalendar can be called a universal application. It claims to be an all-in-one digital solution that has basic calendar functions combined with some other advanced features, such as weather forecasting for a given day. The app supports Google Calendar, as well as tasks, widgets, lunar calendars and even Foursquare. Those who search for calendar apps to include everything in their functionality, SoCalendar is a program to consider. There are many interesting things in this app; The program does an excellent job of working in all-in-one mode. SoCalendar Test - the app is available for free. You can test it without purchasing a service. Download SoCalendar here. 8. IRL Event Social Network One of the most unique applications in this list is the IRL Event Social Network app. As you can guess from the name, the core focus of this app is social networking. Unlike other social media platforms, you can consider this platform to work similarly to Meetup.com. This is a site where you can connect with others in your area who have similar interests. IRL is that while also providing a convenient calendar for you to schedule events and plan your day. Although it's therefore a secondary focus, you don't have many aspects of synchronization that exist in other apps in this list. Regardless, due to these great social features, it's a good idea to consider those who want to make more connections. Download IRL Event Social Network here. 9. Today's Today Calendar is one of the most hip and edgy calendars on our list. The solution is one of the first to truly embrace Material Design and remains one of the few that adheres to neat styles. The calendar app offers bold colors, simple controls, and great functionality. It's not as heavy as the application as the others; it will not consume all the memory of your device. If you are not looking for something and too functional, Today Calendar is what you need. You can always test the app before paying for it - the program is available for free. Download Today Calendar here. 10. Page Time Is Intuitive calendar app that will manage your time in a way that other calendar apps can't. It offers the same kind of functionality you'd expect from other calendar apps: opportunities to record events, notifications and reminders, weather, and the duration of driving to a specific event. However, the application goes beyond that functionality in two ways. The first way is when the app sends you notifications, it also has reminders for you for what's coming next. A little extra time it can allow you to prepare and make adjustments to your day if necessary. The second function - more importantly - is the heat map when you go to see the full view of your calendar. This heat map shows what days you are busiest and other days where you are freer. This heat map provides a quick glance to broadly determine what day is good for adding more events and other tasks. Download the Time Page here. Our Verdict Searching for the right app to manage your various calendars and plan your busy day can sometimes turn into a barrage of obstacles. Most of us need flexible applications that can be easily used to manage our difficult schedules. The application must have all the necessary and intuitive time planning functions. Stylish design and unlimited compatibility are also important. It's not always easy to find such a program. The above digital calendar solutions fall into the category worth using. They are modern, multifunctional, easy, and easy. Choose the one you like! More Productivity Apps for Better Time Management Featured photo credits: Unsplash via unsplash.com unsplash.com
